

Youth Riots

Fifth Estate Collective

1970

OHIO RIOT

More than 3,000 youths took to the streets over the holiday weekend in Russell Point, a small resort town located next to Indian Lake in Ohio. Pigs moved on the set firing tear gas and shotguns loaded with rock salt. The youths responded with firecrackers, regrouping at different locations each time they were dispersed.

According to Logan County Sheriff DeWesse Skidmore, it is not known how many youths were injured. "They took care of themselves," he said.

He is the ex-mayor because last year at the annual event he started firing a shotgun and was removed from office by court order.

However, former mayor Lloyd Pickering got thumped a bit by the people.

BUFFALO

There was a riot in the Buffalo New York youth ghetto two weeks ago after police attacked an art festival given by the people to counter an "official" one held by the pigs. Over thirty people were arrested, and the entire community was heavily gassed. The local news didn't even mention it

CASS LAKE?

Brothers and sisters, partying in Yosemite Valley in California, chased local park pigs when they tried to make a bullshit bust like the one at Cass Lake.

Throwing rocks and bottles, they held off 50 park rangers forcing them to call in reinforcements from nearby San Joaquin Valley. When it was over, approximately 70 persons were under arrest.

According to Mike Wood, a resort cafe employee, "These people were sitting out there partying. They threw stones so they could stay on, and it turned into a life and death thing."

Fifth Estate Collective
Youth Riots
1970

<https://www.fifthestate.org/archive/109-july-9-22-1970/youth-riots>
Fifth Estate #109, July 9-22, 1970

fifthestate.anarchistlibraries.net