the 1990s, the number of people in the United States who are obese has increased by 50 percent. In 1990, 15 percent of the population was obese, and in 2000, 25 percent of the population was obese. The increase in obesity is a major public health problem because obesity is a risk factor for many chronic diseases, including heart disease, diabetes, and certain types of cancer. The increase in obesity is also a reflection of changes in the American diet and lifestyle. In the 1990s, the average American consumed more calories than in the 1980s, and the average American spent more time sitting down than in the 1980s. The increase in obesity is a reflection of these changes in the American diet and lifestyle.

the 1990s, the number of people in the United States who are obese has increased by 50 percent. In 1990, 15 percent of the population was obese, but by 2000, that number had risen to 23 percent. And the numbers are projected to continue to rise. By 2010, 30 percent of the population is expected to be obese, and by 2020, that number is projected to reach 35 percent. The increase in obesity is not just a problem for the United States. It is a global phenomenon. In many countries, the prevalence of obesity has increased in the last few decades. In 1975, only 1 percent of the world's population was obese. By 2000, that number had risen to 6 percent. And by 2020, it is projected to reach 11 percent. The increase in obesity is a major public health concern because it is a leading cause of heart disease, diabetes, and other chronic diseases. It is also a major cause of disability and premature death. The World Health Organization estimates that obesity is responsible for 2.8 million deaths each year. The increase in obesity is also a major economic burden. In the United States, the cost of obesity-related health care is estimated to be $148 billion each year. In other countries, the cost is also high. In the United Kingdom, the cost of obesity-related health care is estimated to be £10 billion each year. In Germany, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In France, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In Italy, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In Spain, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In the Netherlands, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In Sweden, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In Norway, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In Denmark, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In Finland, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In Iceland, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year. In the United Kingdom, the cost is estimated to be £10 billion each year. In Germany, the cost is estimated to be €10 billion each year.
