"We might as well leave, Fred."

Not many of us are fortunate enough to have parents like the above.

For a book directed at (against) the establishment & the reaction, Tuli Kupferberg is seeking info about young people with ideas radically different from their families: case histories of the generation gap. For example: at the last great Pentagon demo, the daughter of Gen. Hershey's first assistant was arrested. "A colonel's son was arrested in Lawrence, Kansas, for parading in front of the local draft board with a sign reading: "Fuck the Draft." An admiral's son is a member of the Cornell resistance. Sen. McGovern's daughter has been busted for dope, &c &c. (He is looking for people in all branches of the establishment, not just the military: i.e., in industry, finance, government, education, &c.)

Do a good turn (your parents in). Info about anyone, even second or third hand, friends, news articles, &c, is wanted.
